October 8, 2011, Chuo Ward, Tokyo, Tokyo Prefecture, Japan: Enterprising Japanese designer selling macabre Steve Jobs T-shirts in front of the Apple Store located in Tokyo's Ginza district on Friday, October 7, 2011. He was doing this without shame or fear accompanied by his wife and young son, in order to sell shirts to those stopping by to pay respects to Jobs. This is Apple's flagship store in Japan, opened in 2003. Apple founder and CEO, Steven Paul Jobs who was responsible for the Macintosh computer, iPod, iPhone, iPad and iTunes media provider, as well as the Pixar movie studios died from a long bout with cancer on October 5, 2011.///Macabre Steve Jobs shirt on sale in front of Apple store.
