

Mount Dionysos wild birds sanctuary release program

Reference
DUKAS_184304891_POL
Title
Mount Dionysos wild birds sanctuary release program
Creation date
20250503
Caption
May 3, 2025 - Mount Dyonisos - Attica, Athens, Greece: Ms. Maria Ganoti from ANIMA – Association for the Protection and Welfare of Wildlife, releases wild birds back into nature, in one of the few remaining unburned forests of Attica, on the slopes of Mount Dionysos. The release is part of ANIMA's ongoing efforts to rehabilitate injured wildlife, often harmed by electrocution from power lines or illegal hunting. The birds released include short-toed snake eagles, hawks, nocturnal raptors such as owls and eagle owls, and other species. This year, as ANIMA celebrates 20 years of tireless action, the organization continues to call for donations and new volunteers to support its vital mission, especially in the face of escalating environmental destruction. (Maro Kouri/Polaris) (FOTO:DUKAS/POLARIS)
Special instructions
(c) Dukas
City
Athens
Credit
DUKAS
Source
POLARIS
Author
/ Polaris, 08034682
Original references
Polaris, 08034682