Legally Blonde actress Reese Witherspoon has revealed a new series of her hit TV show Big Little Lies is being made.

The 49-year-old mother-of-two also spoke about her 26 year friendship with Friends star Jennifer Aniston — after making a cameo appearance on the Nineties TV favourite.

Reese was on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon in the US to discuss the new series of Apple TV+ comedy drama The Morning Show which co-stars Aniston.

The pair are also the co-producers.

Fallon, 50, showed a photo from the Friends episode where Reese appeared aged 23.

He asked: "Did you even realise that, one day, you'll end up producing and being on a show with her "

She replied: "No. The fact that this person that I met when I was 23 years old, and now we are producers together, co-stars together, we're dealing with HR issues together !

"It's amazing. It's been so much fun. We have the best time."

She also has co-written a novel called Gone Before Goodbye inspired by her father who worked as a military surgeon with a female lead who is also a medic.
