Artist Carrie Reichardt has covered her house in a leafy street in Chiswick, West London, in mosaics. She has been working on the house for 20 years. Scaffolding on the front was up for 4 years and 3 months and came down on Tuesday 24th October. Artists from Chile, Spain, the Netherlands, Spain and France came to help her finish the work. She had 23 mosaic eyeballs sent from other International artists. Her house is known as 'The Treatment Rooms'. She created the 'Mad in England' brand and she donates part of her profits to the Single Homeless Project. Carrie has just become the first visual artist in residence for The Shakespeare Birthplace Trust. Carrie Reichardt's Mosaic House, Chiswick, London, UK-28 Oct 2017
