

FEATURE - High-Tech-Ring ist wie ein tragbares Smartphone

Reference

DUK10120968_005

Title

FEATURE - High-Tech-Ring ist wie ein tragbares Smartphone

Creation date

20190716

Caption

Ferrari Press Agency

Ref 10664

Ring 1

16/07/2019

See Ferrari text

Pictures must credit: LazyCo

After smartphones and smartwatches comes a new piece of intelligent hardware – in the shape of a James Bond-style ring. The Aina is worn in the finger like a normal ring but does more than just look good as an adornment. It features a black onyx-like rectangle on the front, and a small display on the edge. The ring itself comes in range of finishes metal plated in gold, rose-gold, and even platinum. It can be used to book cabs, make payments, unlock doors, toggle through presentations, track your fitness, and most importantly, it lets users talk on their phones without needing it to hand. Just by holding a finger to the ear, Aina projects sound directly into it. Aina comes from the Hindi word for mirror.

OPS: The Aina ring.

Picture supplied by Ferrari (FOTO: DUKAS/FERRARI PRESS)

Special instructions

(c) Dukas

City

Credit

DUKAS

Source

FERRARI PRESS
Author
LazyCo
Original references