Caption

January 6, 2007, Havana, Cuba: Cuban and U.S. specialists have completed an extensive restoration of Ernest Hemingway's one-time residence in Cuba. Located in San Francisco de Paula, "Finca Vigia" was the first foreign property to be listed by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, America's foremost heritage organization. Hemingway resided at his Havana home until 1961, when he left the island following the Cuban revolution.///A trophy head adorns a table at Finca Vigia..
