Caption
Refugees and migrants are at the temporary hosting facility of Agia, an expo pavilion, outside the city of Chania on Crete island. The newcomers are asylum seekers mostly from African countries and travel on boats from Libya to Greece, crossing the Mediterranean Sea. The Greek government and lawmakers try to revoke the asylum applications and imprison the newly arrived people in detention camps in Chania, Greece, on July 14, 2025. (Photo by Gene Medi/NurPhoto)
