A statue of the Nepali Hindu god Bishwokarma is loaded into a vehicle as it is prepared to be immersed in the river on the outskirts of Kathmandu, Nepal, on September 18, 2025. Bishwokarma is also the official builder of all the gods' palaces. According to Hindu mythologies, he designs all the flying chariots of the gods and goddesses and also designs and makes weapons for them. In the Mahabharata, the world's biggest epic, he is described as "The lord of the arts, executor of a thousand handicrafts, the carpenter of gods, most eminent of artisans, the fashioner of all ornaments and a great and immortal god." Like in Nepal, the ritual is also performed in India. (Photo by Subaas Shrestha/NurPhoto)
