

Jacob Elordi in new Frankenstein trailer

Reference

DUKAS_189495452_FER

Title

Jacob Elordi in new Frankenstein trailer

Creation date

Caption

Ferrari Press Agency

Frankenstein 1

Ref 17174

01/10/2025

See Ferrari text

Picture MUST credit: Netflix

Here's the first facial glimpse of Saltburn actor Jacob Elordi as the monster in a new big screen adaptation of Frankenstein.

The Australian's half covered face is revealed at the end of the first full trailer for the latest big scare version of British author Mary Shelley's 1818 classic horror novel.

Elordi's face is kept hidden for much of the footage but the final frames show him confronting his maker, US actor Oscar Isaac as Victor Frankenstein.

The seemingly indestructible monster lights a stick of dynamite and advises his creator to run. The film has been directed by Mexico's Guillermo del Toro known for dark movies like Pan's Labyrinth.

Elordi's face is kept hidden in the trailer but his hooded figure is seen taking on a boat load of sailors.

Immune to their bullets he tips a ship trapped in ice over on its side.

Another scene shows Isaac's Frankenstein selecting an eyeball for the being he is creating,

A more touching scene shows the monster's face being caressed by Victor Frankenstein's fiancée played by Mia Goth

The all-star cast also includes Games of Thrones actor Charles Dance and award winning Christoph Waltz,

Frankenstein is due to hit screens in November both in the cinema and on Netflix streaming.

OSP: A clip from the first full trailer for Guillermo del Toro's Frankenstein.

Picture supplied by Ferrari (FOTO: DUKAS/FERRARI PRESS)

Special instructions

(c) Dukas

City

Credit

DUKAS

Source

FERRARI PRESS

Author

Netflix

Original references