These stunning images offer a rare glimpse into the night-time activities of wild animals as they visit a watering hole in the hours of darkness.

Zebras, wildebeests, and cape buffaloes create stunning reflections on the surface of the water as they lower their heads to take a drink.

A powerful wildebeest visits the pool to take a drink while two others linger in the background - perfectly symmetrical to each other.

In another breathtaking photograph, four illuminated zebras stand in a precise line with their heads bowed down towards their reflections.
