EXCLUSIVE Los Angeles, CA - Kevin Federline took his son Sean Preston to basketball practice today on an outdoor court. Sean recently finished his little league season of baseball and is quickly moving on to his next sport. Sean was very active out on the court today, shooting and passing the ball every opportunity he had. At one point, he got his finger jammed when the ball was passed to him and he shook it off like a tough guy. Kevin played around with a few of the other dads while the kids had a blast and began learning the game.
